MONDAY ...... MAY 10, 1869.

The Killing of Jo. Holmes. The unprincipled scoundrels who feel that their bread and butter depend upon the success of the WELLS faction, and who have no idea of trying to make an honest living anywhere, but who hope to subsist upon the crumbs that are expected to fall from the tables of the plunderers with whom they wish to fill the offices of this State, are so lost to all sense of shame that they do not hesitate to utter the infamous falsehood that the killing of Jo. HOLMES was part of a system of browbeating and terrorism which is to be resorted to by the Conservatives for the purpose of carrying the elections. Of course the villains who give utterance to such falsehoods chuckle in their sleeves when they think how GREE-LEY, and FORNEY, and WENDELL PHIL-LIPS, will be taken in by them; yet they must experience some doubts in their own minds as to whether General GRANT and General CANBY can be imposed upon by such slanders. It is not necessary for us to tell even the negroes in Virginia that the Wellsites manufactured this lie out of the whole cloth. Sambo is not such a fool as to believe the story. He knows that his pretended friends of the carpet-bag genus do not desire him to aspire to any office; and he will be apt to regard such tales as scarecrows, set up to frighten him out of the field of candidacy. We advise the Rev. FIELDS COOK, Dr. THOMAS BAYNE, the Hon. LEWIS LINDSEY, and other distinguished Wells men of the "colored persuasion," to pay no attention to any efforts that may be made by the white carpet-baggers and scalawags of their party to alarm them as to their personal safety, but to demand a fair share of all the offices. As 90,000 is to 1,000 so is the number of the offices to which the negroes are entitled to the number to which the whites are entitled-that is, according to the teachings of these scalawags and carpet-baggers, and because that is about the relative strength of the two races in the Radical party of Virginia. There is no true man in Virginia who would not rather see FIELDS COOK elected to Congress than CHARLES H. PORTER. And so far from there being any intention on the part of the Conservatives to bring guns, pistols, and Bowie knives, to bear upon the result and keep down the negro, it is the fact that if compelled to choose between PORTER and Cook, nine Virginians out of every ten will unhesitatingly vote for the latter.

The negroes of Virginia are to assemble in convention in this city before long. There will be delegates from perhaps all, or nearly all, the counties in the State. They will be molested by no white man of the Conservative party. We are rather pleased their new masters—that is to say, the carpet-baggers and scalawags aforesaid. We counsel them to heed not the infamous falsehoods that may be concocted by these unprincipled masters of theirs for the purpose of inducing them to remain at home, and thus of causing their State Convention to be a failure. Let them come in peace, and the Conservatives of this city will keep off all that they shall return to their homes unmolested. There is no feeling of opposition to the objects of this Convention on the part of the native white men of Richmond or of the State. We wish to see the Wellsites put to the test, and be made either to acknowledge that the negroes ought not to be elected to office, or to agree to nominate ninety negroes for every white scalawag or carpet-bagger that may be similarly favored. Let no clamor about the hostile intent of the whites, and no fears of guns, clubs, or pistols, deter you from demanding of those who tell you that you are their equals that proportion of the offices of the State to which you are entitled, according to the lesson which they have taught you and to your numbers.

As to the killing of HOLMES, we know nothing more than the papers have told us. We deplore all violence. We have no sympathy with any man who would maltreat a negro because he is a negro. But, being in ignorance as to the provocation and the circumstances of this homicide, we cannot undertake to pronounce judgment against either the dead or the living. General CANBY will cause the unfortunate affair to be thoroughly investigated, and will no doubt have justice done as between man and man. Meanwhile, we would warn our northern friends, and especially General GRANT, not to place any reliance upon the one-sided statements made in the interest of the Wells faction, and which are intended only to aid in the election of the wandering Michigander.

VIRGINIA AS SEEN BY A TRAVELLER .-The editor of the Hagerstown Mail gives in his paper an interesting account of a recent trip to Virginia. It would occupy a whole page of the Dispatch. We can cull only a few paragraphs from it. He says:

"Upper and Lower Brandon particularly attracted our attention, as well as 'Westover,' the residence of Major Drewry. These fine estates have been the residences of gentlemen of wealth and taste. They are really magnificent, and to see them is worth alone the ride up the James. To recall at present writing the bright, charming scene reminds us of a pleasant dreamor what we have read of Fairy Land. 'Twas a charming picture—God's own paint-

From Richmond the editor went to Halifax, and enjoyed himself in such good company as that of the Edmundses, Carringtons, Paces, Claibornes, Sterlings, Craddocks, Moores, Colemans, Greens, Bruces, Chalmers, Medleys, &c., &c. Of John R. Edmunds's place, he says :

" 'Beautiful!' 'Beautiful!' were the exclamations of our friends as, emerging from the forest, the lovely scene presented itself. Never did picturesque beauty present stronger attraction for the genius of the artist. Stretching before us was a magnificently picturesque scene, with hill and dale, forest and open country, clothed in beautiful spring garb, smiling with luxuriant grass and wheat-fields miles in ex-

His corn-fields, already planted, were immense, and his wheat-fields looked the very picture of a healthy growth-the effects of a strong soil. The wheat-fields alone covered about 500 acres, and will produce from twenty to twenty-five bushels of of the foremost men in his section of the State—a descendant from the stock of the 'Old Virginians.' His father and grand- DANDRIDGE & ANDERSON, ap 1 Broad street.

father before him owned some 5,000 acres of land, on which himself and three of his brothers are now settled. He informed us that he still retained the title papers from Lord Dunmore for the grant as far back as

There are many personal compliments in the article; but they come almost within the "prohibited degrees" according to our Virginia notions, and so we do not reproduce them."

Virginia. We have more than once heretofore alluded to the "plentiful lack of knowledge" which the great so-called "metropolitan" dailies manifest whenever they discuss legal points. The World of Friday last, in referring to the prospects of reconstruction in Virginia, quotes from the act of Congress the following: "That the proceedings in any of said States [Virginia, Mississippi, and Texas,] shall not be deemed final, or operate a complete restoration thereof, until the action of said States respectively shall be approved by Congress.'

The World attaches much importance to this language. But will the World tell us how the case would stand if this section had been omitted from the law altogether? The answer is, Just as it does now. The language is mere surplusage. We in Virginia knew just as well before Congress so declared as we do now that our proceedings were subject to the action of Congress, and that if not approved they would profit us nothing. But when Congress expressly grants us the privilege of voting down such sections of the constitution as we deem objectionable, and that, too, after having been told what sections we so regard, we are not so weak as to fear that our work will be rejected because of any partiality on the part of Congress for the rejected features of the constitution.

The Winchester Journal (Radical) is not pleased with WALKER. It says:

"Since the Conservative Convention of last week it is clear that they intend to support Walker. The result of this will be that if he is elected he will have to do their bidding. He will be a tool in their hands. He will be no more a Republican than Henry A. Wise. It matters not whether he has promised to carry out their plans or

Perhaps the Journal's paragraph will secure as many votes for WALKER as it will cause him to lose.

FORNEY returns thanks to the "Union citizens" of Richmond for attentions paid to him during his recent visit.

GREELEY suggests that WELLS is "hedging," and " hails the indication as most auspicious."

The American Law Times and Official Journal of the Courts and Departments of the Federal Government. Published at Washington.

The title of the above-named paper will than displeased to find that they begin to give a correct idea of its character. It manifest a spirit of independence towards gives reports of leading decisions of the United States Courts and State Courts, of the law and practice in the United States Bankruptcy Courts, of the leading current decisions, rulings, orders, opinions, &c., in the executive departments, bureaus, agencies, and offices of the United States Government, of general American and foreign law and official information. It will thus serve not only to keep the business carpet-baggers and scalawags, and see to it man posted as to the current rulings in re-'gard to the revenue laws, &c., but the lawyer as to all decisions in which he will be likely to feel an interest.
